ISTE and ASCD unite and become divisions of a new education nonprofit organization. As one collective group, the two organizations will expand their influence to serve all educators throughout their careers and set a course to design the future of education by modernizing instructional practices that close access and equity gaps.

Top Five Ways Educators Benefit from the Merger

1. Uniting technology with pedagogy to design the future of education.
2. Setting the pace for innovation in education.
3. Expanding support for the whole educator with evidenced-based learning.
4. Building a larger community of passionate educators.
5. Leading with courage and conviction to reimagine education.
